

HEMLOCK SOCIETY OF SAN DIEGO

Invites you to a free presentation

Retirement Communities: Are They For You?

JACK CUMMING

Board Member of the National Continuing Care Residents Association

Jack Cumming, as an Actuary and a resident of a Continuing Care Community himself, will examine the financial and social questions involved in deciding on where to live as a senior.

He will address the question of whether living in a community provides a secure retirement or a risky investment and the effectiveness and financing of senior living options.

He serves on the CCRC Subcommittee of Aging Services of California and is on the Board of the National Continuing Care Residents Association.

Sunday, Nov. 13, 2011 -- 1:30 pm

Joyce Beers Community Center -- 1230 Cleveland St., San Diego 92103

Although the address is on Cleveland Street, Joyce Beers Community Center is physically located on Vermont Street -- one block north of University Avenue in the Uptown Center, between Trader Joe's and Aladdin Restaurant.

Free parking--best parking is underground beneath Trader Joe's and Ralphs.

For more information call (619) 233-4418 or for directions see our website at HemlockSocietySanDiego.org